ClearDay Web GroupCast™

As the leading provider of web based replenishment systems to distribution intensive companies, Thrive delivers best-in-class functionality proven to optimize inventory levels for a whole new generation of companies. The increase in inventory profitability resulting from an investment in Thrive's affordable on demand software translates into an ROI within weeks for Thrive's customers.

Thrive ClearDay Web: How it Works

Thrive's ClearDay Web software automates the processes of demand forecasting and replenishment. First, ClearDay Web creates demand forecasts for each item by leveraging proven powerful algorithms. It automatically identifies and predicts seasonality and trends. Next, ClearDay Web facilitates an easy review process, highlighting those items that require subjective review, resulting in a solid inventory demand forecast.

After the demand plan is finalized, ClearDay Web automates the replenishment process by evaluating stock status: how much inventory is on-hand and how much is in transit. ClearDay Web provides visibility into the future to predict when products will be needed and vendor line orders will need to be placed. Then it generates alerts, such as expedites, service level issues, potential stock-outs, etc.

Thrive ClearDay Web: Get The Edge

Since ClearDay Web evaluates each item at each location every day, it enables replenishment buyers to become much more proactive decision makers.

ClearDay Web settings are configured with your specific company inventory goals during the implementation by highly skilled implementation staff.

Every day, ClearDay Web alerts the buyers of potential stockouts before they occur ranked in order of importance.

Thrive ClearDay Web: Impressive Benefits

The combination of personal customer service, deep domain expertise, On Demand software, and proven methodologies sets Thrive apart from any other system in the market.

Our customers will attest to experiencing reduced stock-outs while converting overstock inventory into cash. With products that are easy to use and implement, Thrive is committed to helping a whole new generation of businesses gain competitive advantage by optimizing and gaining control of their inventory.
